

BOY SLAYERS LOSE NERVE.

Van Wormers in Cell Are Now White-Faced
Wracks.

STILL SAY IT WAS A JOKE!

Tell-Tale Stain on Kitchen Wall
Belies Their Story of Old Farmer
Hallenbeck's Murder.

HUDSON, N. Y., Jan. 2.—The three Van Wormer boys now cower one cell in the Hudson jail. They suppose being allowed to communicate freely with each other and are more cheerful than they have been at any time since their arrest.

But the boys have lost their nerve, and are now white-faced wracks. They have changed immeasurably since their arrest and would hardly be recognized by their former associates. They fully realize the situation in which they have placed themselves, and they now have no hope except to escape the death penalty by a long term in prison.

Indictments against the boys will be found by the Grand Jury which meets Jan. 13. There is little likelihood that the cases will be called for trial before May. When they are finally called to answer for their crime they will admit the killing of old Peter Hallenbeck, but will claim that they "didn't mean to commit murder."

Will Admit Killing.

They will swear that when they started out they only intended to turn their coats, put on masks and point their guns at the old man, thus frightening him and causing him to fall before them. They say that this rare feat was planned in order to test the old man's nerve, he having started to Mrs. Bruce on the subject of her visit to Greenport a few weeks ago that if any of the chicken thieves then robbing the poultry farms in the neighborhood, ever called upon him he would "pepper them well for their trouble."

They will further state that when the door was opened they appeared in the opening, with their reversed coats and masks and revolvers pointed, expecting him to plead for mercy, and that they were forced to fire because he grasped his gun at the side of the door and was about to shoot. Then they fired in self-defense.

The widow of the murdered man denies this story. She declares that the boys began shooting as soon as the door was opened, and before her husband had time to think about reaching for his weapon.

Hears Out the Widow.

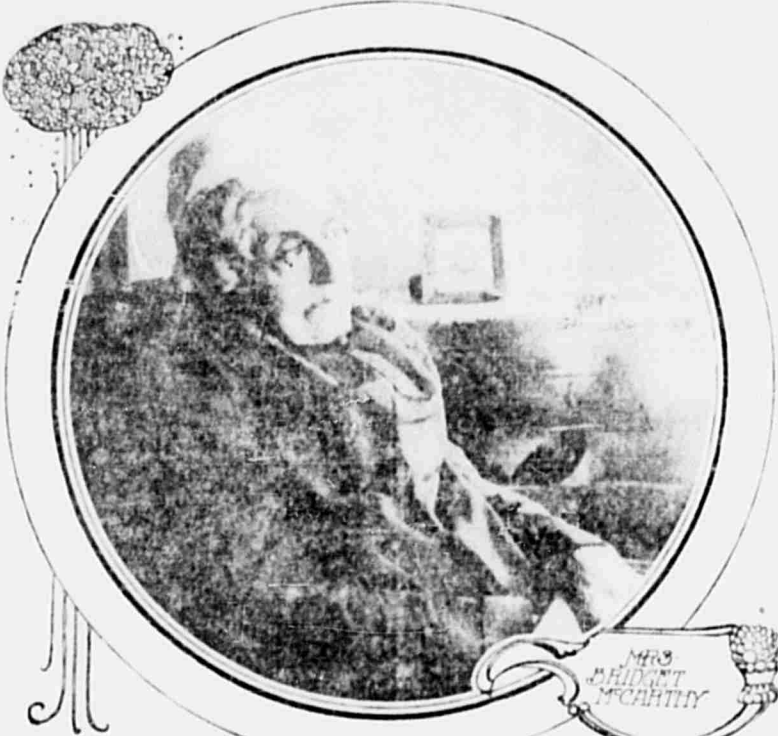

The wall of the kitchen alcove which the shotgun stood near a blind-stain, which substantiates Mrs. Hallenbeck's statements and discredits the claim of the Van Wormers. Mr. Hallenbeck was wounded in the wrist, and when he reached for his shotgun the blood spurted out and stained the wall. This shows that he was wounded before he reached for his gun.

For several years the three Van Wormers and Harvey Bruce had been the terror of the neighborhood in which they lived. Their principal occupation was the stealing of chickens, turkeys and geese, which they shipped to New York and sold. The farmers feared to make any complaint against the young desperadoes, and the boys, who were armed and who had shown that they were not afraid to use their weapons, though the shooting the day before had been done had not injured any one.

Just before Thanksgiving they robbed Farmer Christy, living near Katonah Station, of twenty turkeys. Two weeks ago they visited him again, taking turkeys, chickens and geese. When he appeared at a window and offered a mild protest they drove him back into his house with a revolver. From the revolver they always carried.

Shortly after this they chased James Riley through the town of Katonah, and into his house, firing after him as he ran, and explaining the affair afterward by saying it was only a joke.

MRS. MCCARTHY, 109, LIVED UNDER IRISH PARLIAMENT.

ANSONIA, Conn., Jan. 2.—Mrs. McCarthy, of the city, lived in the land where Ireland had a parliament. A copy of the record of her birth shows that she was born in Mitchellsburg, Ireland, on May 19, 1793. She has thus lived in three centuries. She came to America in 1850.

Mrs. McCarthy remembers the hanging of Father Gregory at Madison, in 1793, the hanging of Ireland with 1793, the death of William IV, in 1837, and the coronation of Queen Victoria.

She is the only survivor and the oldest of a family of seven, the rest having died in the last century.

Her sister, Mrs. Ellen McGee, who died in 1890, was 109 years old.

They will further state that when the door was opened they appeared in the opening, with their reversed coats and masks and revolvers pointed, expecting him to plead for mercy, and that they were forced to fire because he grasped his gun at the side of the door and was about to shoot. Then they fired in self-defense.

When he was taken to the hospital, he was found to have a bullet wound in the chest, and he died a few days later.

The police are now investigating the case, and it is expected that the boys will be charged with murder.

The Wanamaker Store.

A WHITE SALE

The Great January Sale Begins Today

THE great merchandise movement that has been in preparatory operation for almost six months fills the store with New Year freshness and enthusiasm today. The Sale of White was originated by the Wanamaker Store, in Philadelphia, many years ago, for two reasons. Primarily to make business for an otherwise dull month. Secondly, because we found that manufacturers would work without profit for such a sale, in order to keep their factory organizations intact during their otherwise idle seasons.

This is an old-fashioned and familiar tale today. But conditions have changed. January is no longer a dull month. Women have found it highly helpful to get this part of their spring preparations off their minds before the more serious dress makers come. Factories are largely busy all year round. And so, more masterful merchandising is necessary than in those earlier days. The primitive sales that brought about a trade revolution years ago, presented no such values—no such marvelous arrays of superb merchandise under price as are offered by the Wanamaker Sale of 1902. The ripe experience, the merchandising strength and prestige, the Wanamaker energy and determination have been ceaselessly, powerfully at work during these months, in obtaining these vast and splendid gatherings of Merchandise in White.

No Equal Stock Was Ever Shown Before!

In Muslin Underwear the matter of cheapness is no longer a guide. The broader virtue of value is the constant aim. Beauty, refinement, high quality of materials, skilful and liberal cutting of patterns, neat and careful workmanship, hygienic cleanliness in the factories producing the garments. These first—but low prices always—often lower prices than are quoted elsewhere on garments of the gaudy, starchy, skimpy, carelessly put together kinds.

Producing a White Sale would be a simple matter if we bought from the factories that buy lots of unsalable embroideries, seconds of muslins and employ irresponsible labor for the making. They turn out "cheapness" by the hundreds, and supply hundreds of stores with make-believe goods, that supply hundreds of stores with make-believe goods, so much below their usual values. This is the reason of the months of persistent effort necessary to produce a movement such as this unmatched.

WANAMAKER SALE OF WHITE

An array of bare descriptions and prices tells little of the freshness, neatness and beauty of the garments; but we quote them literally nevertheless:
